Csetkwe (Pronounced: chuh-set-quah) (Meaning: Lights Reflection on Water) Csetkwe is a multi-gifted artist with her roots in the Sylix (Okanagan) and Secwepmec (Shuswap) Nations. Holding the responsibility and respect of being stamia (two spirit), a sqwuy (mother to sons) and a Traditional Knowledge Keeper, she mainly represents in Live Arts and Visual Arts.

Csetkwe's performances include those of a Singer/ Song Carrier, Spoken Word Poet as part of the k wem k wem slénšénəy – Indigenous Female Drum Collective and as the former front woman in multimedia performance collective Skookum Sound System. As a visual artist, Csetkwe is grateful to contribute to the Kama Collective and Ullus Collective.

Jerry Louis and Duane Marchand
Born and raised on the ancestral and unceded lands of the suknaqinx , both men have grown up with a love for music and have jammed up and down the Sylix Nation at many family, friends or community events. Raised in different genres, both are passionate in sharing their love for songs and guitar playing.
"Keep on Rocking in the free world"

Rez Daddy

Rez Daddy is looking for honeys to spoil. He's got baby mama drama, blankets on his windows, and a beat up car. He has performed all across the Okanagan and Vancouver. Looking to snag? He's your guy. Rez Daddy is here to tease and please with his frog butt and beer gut.

Don't cry, it's only Ken!

KENDONTCRY is a sad and sexy drag king living on the traditional, ancestral and unceded land of the Westbank First Nation.

Mixing original poetry, song, and lip sync, Ken explores themes of mental health, sexuality, and gender. Follow all of Ken's creative passions on instagram @dontcryken.

Introducing Hollie Woods - the reigning queen of style and sass! With her dazzling charisma and glamorous flair, she's sure to leave you wanting more. Hailing from Kamloops and the Shuswap, this local gem is ready to serve up some serious attitude! So what are you waiting for? Come and get it! Xo, Hollie

Ella I'Amoureux

"Two-Spirit, for myself, just means essentially embodying the femininity and the masculinity in myself and accepting that," she says. "It stems from re-falling in love with my culture."

"If I didn't love my culture, I wouldn't have identified with Two-Spirit," she says.

"I want to show young, Indigenous queer people that you can be successful and love your culture and be who you want to be." (<https://indiginews.com/arts/in-photos-being-a-two-spirit-queen>)
